Rock and Redeemer, spread Your shelter of peace over the land of Israel and over all our brothers and sisters who live there. Shine Your light upon Israel's leaders, officers and advisers, help them to overcome all divisiveness and to act with clarity and determination. Protect the men and women who defend Israel, let them be safe and may they be victorious. Watch over them and bring peace.

If you have a resident story or feedback you'd like to share, please let us know. We also welcome opportunities to meet with senior groups in the community to discuss our programs & services. Please contact Kari Bell. kbell@rivergarden.org or (904) 288-7855

His name will forever be a blessing on the River Garden campus

As we move into the new year, we pause to celebrate the life of David Stein. David and Linda Stein's contributions to our agency have been numerous and deeply impactful. His dedication and willingness to continue the Stein family legacy and help River Garden fulfill our mission have left an indelible mark. We are forever grateful for their generosity and - as we promised David long ago - we will do our best every day to make him proud by serving the community with excellence.

Inside Line

By Mauri Witten Mizrahi, Chief Executive Officer

As we approach the Jewish New Year, we enter a time of reflection, renewal and spiritual growth. We reflect on opportunities to ensure River Garden's future and our unwavering commitment to pursue excellence. We solidify our plans for growth.

We are proud that River Garden Hebrew Home continues to be a five-star rated care community (highest possible), a preferred provider to area hospitals, Joint Commission accredited, recognized by U.S. News and World Report and Newsweek as a top performing skilled nursing facility, and an unprecedented ten-time recipient of the prestigious Florida Governor's Gold Seal Award for Excellence in Long-Term Care.

We are overjoyed that The Coves Senior Living remains 100% occupied and the River Garden Adult Day Program is approaching full capacity.

We renew our longstanding commitment to being both flexible and focused on advocating for and meeting the needs of seniors and their families from all backgrounds and serving as a Jewish Home and campus inclusive of the entire Jacksonville community.

We continue developing plans to sustain, grow and enhance River Garden as a first-class senior living community and an arena of Jewish life.

This year, as we also reflect on the tragic events on and after the October 7th attack on Israel, we remember the lives lost and the pain endured by so many. We stand in solidarity with the people of Israel as we all continue to rebuild and heal. Together, we must hold on to hope, resilience, and unity.

May the new year bring blessings, peace, healing and a renewed sense of purpose. May the work we do today provide a legacy for future generations.

Shanah Tovah U'Metukah,
Wishing you a sweet and happy New Year,

Mauri

Thank you to Martin J. Gottlieb Day School students for baking and delivering honey cakes for our residents and members of The Coves! School visits sweeten our days at Rosh Hashanah and all year around.

*The excitement of the shofar blast,
may it stir your soul*

Throughout the Hebrew month of Elul the sounds of the shofar can be heard across our campus. The shofar's blasts are intended to awaken us from a spiritual slumber and prepare us for the work of renewal associated with Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur. The different types of blasts have special meanings. For example, the single, long blast of Tekiah is a call to action, while the three medium blasts of Shevarim represent the cries of the heart when seemingly insurmountable problems happen. The nine short staccato sounds of Teruah, sounded after Shevarim, remind us that progress is made step by step and that redemption is a process.

What values and intentions do you want to nurture?

Jane Grann
Family Caregiver

I hope we all remember that life is all about family being together and treating others as you would like to be treated.

Evelyn Peck
Auxiliary Member

The Jewish value I want to pass on is appreciation without obligation. My parents always made sure I had a good life and they never expected anything in return. They taught me to do a mitzvah every day.

Marion Schwartz
Resident

The most important Jewish value is kindness. We should remember to treat each other the way we want people to treat us.

Sandy Zimmerman
Board Member

The Jewish value that I want to pass on is the importance of family. River Garden has cared for so many of our families and we need to ensure this carries on for generations.

Esther Kahn
Resident

The most important value is to treat others as you wish to be treated. Be kind.

Karen Levin
Volunteer

My wish for the new year is peace. That is all we need: World Peace.

Ivan Peltz
Resident

I want to help other people have a happy and healthy new year.

Ginette Mizrahi
Resident Volunteer

The Jewish value I want to pass on is the love of devoting your time to the service of others.

*If the only prayer you say throughout your life is 'Thank You,'
then that will be enough. ~ Elie Wiesel*

A Prayer for River Garden

Eternal God, Creator and Sustainer of Life:

As we stand at the threshold of this new year, we come before You with hearts full of gratitude and hope. We ask for Your blessings upon this community, the residents, staff and families who gather here in this Home.

Grant Your loving presence to those who have journeyed through many seasons of life. May this year bring them peace, health, and the comforts of friendship. May they feel Your closeness, and may their hearts be lifted with joy and warmth.

For the caretakers and staff, who devote themselves tirelessly to the well-being of others, we pray for strength, patience and compassion. Bless their hands as they serve, their words as they comfort and their spirits as they offer care. May they be renewed each day with the love and gratitude of those they serve.

We ask that You guide us all toward a year of goodness, health, and kindness. May this year bring more love, understanding, and unity to our community. May we feel Your presence in every corner of this Home, and may the light of Your blessings shine upon each person here.

On this Rosh Hashanah, we reflect on the passage of time, the sweetness of memory and the hope for renewal. May the sound of the shofar echo in our hearts, reminding us that each day is a gift and that it is never too late to begin anew. Fill this Home with peace and health in the year to come.

Shanah Tova, a sweet and good year for all.

The Days of Awe 5785

Leslie Held, Chaplain
lheld@rivergarden.org

The name Rosh Hashanah means ‘head of the year’, and the very first Rosh Hashanah is referred to as ‘yom harat olam’ (the birthday of the world) because of the creation of mankind.

All people are created “b’tzelem Elokim” in the image of G-d—not replicas. Our actions, behaviors, habits and attitudes are directed toward bringing the divine into the world. As we recognize and respect the divinity within others we can feel G-d’s presence, and prayer is our greatest opportunity to connect with spiritual energy.

During the High Holidays, many prayers are about the general condition of the world. And, the root of the word “shofar blast” is the same as that of “friendship”. Friendship and brotherhood are key to the uniqueness of holy time.

Every encounter is orchestrated by G-d, so we must learn to anticipate opportunity. Whose life can I impact today? If we have a thought to be kind, then we must act on it for it may not be there in the next minute. Even an anonymous encounter may be meaningful and create a ripple. Walls can become doors and each of us can be an ambassador to bring light, or spiritual energy.

Rather than lament the darkness, aim to increase the light. When we pause to reflect, we can better recognize that each of us is here for a purpose, every hour of every day. We can better trust that G-d directs us through the events and circumstances in our lives.

Let us be alert; help us see the opportunities G-d sends our way. The challenges, the tests and the ‘out of the blue’ unexpected events are there for our benefit – they can help us grow as individuals. Be unafraid of what life throws at you. G-d’s unconditional love and commitment are ironclad.

We are all carrying around a lifetime full of past habits and patterns. Yet, everyone is capable of choosing a new path in life. Will you be strong enough to make a decision to carve out a new direction for your life?

May you be inscribed and sealed for a good life and for peace.

In the Torah G-d presents the Jewish people with a stark choice: There is good, and the blessings that accompany it, and bad, with its accompanying curses. “Choose life,” God commands us (Deut. 30:19).

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, holds profound significance as a time for reflection, repentance and seeking forgiveness. This sacred observance invites individuals to reflect on their actions, repair relationships and find inner healing. Teshuva is often translated as repentance; however, its literal meaning is “return”.

The goal of teshuva is not only to free ourselves of punishment and responsibility from our past transgressions. It is deeply challenging work that can be transformative, returning to a higher and better version of ourselves as we bring ourselves closer to G-d and others with a fresh attitude and outlook on life.

As we seek and offer forgiveness, we might ponder this quote from Confucius: “Those who cannot forgive others break the bridge over which they themselves must pass.”

May we all be inspired to embark on a journey of genuine teshuva and continue the process of becoming our true and higher selves, living a life of goodness and growth. May we reignite our inner light.

There is a custom to perform ‘Tashlich’ between Rosh Hashanah and Sukkot near a natural body of water, such as a river or lake — preferably one that has live fish. At River Garden, we use Lake Lea.

The Hebrew word ‘Tashlich’ literally means ‘throwing away.’ When we do Tashlich, we are symbolically ‘throwing away’ our mistakes from the previous year into the water, and abandoning those old parts of ourselves forever. By abandoning our bad habits and traits, we become newer and better versions of ourselves.

Before we enter the new year, let us look back and make sure nothing is holding us back from moving forward; then can we focus on what’s in front of us and how we can be better.

The festival of Sukkot commemorates the Israelites wandering through the desert for 40 years by celebrating privileges and everyday luxuries. The celebration includes giving thanks for shelter, the abundance of the fall harvest, the bounty of the natural world, and the joy of meal sharing with loved ones.

One is to bring four symbolic plants into the sukkah: a citron (etrog), a palm branch (lulav), a willow (arba), and myrtle (hadas) . These plants represent what is known as "the four kinds," meaning four different kinds of vegetation. When brought together, they symbolize feelings of unity, support, community, and abundance, all relevant during the harvest season.

The eight-day holiday begins after sunset on October 16. Rather than a somber or serious holiday, Sukkot is a joyful yet humble celebration.

The Simple and Profound Sweetness of Volunteering

Esther Yegelwel Raffol
eraffol@rivergarden.org

Every fall, there is an imperceptible yet magical moment when all apple and honey varieties—Granny Smith, McIntosh, golden wildflower and the thousands more—transform into a category all its own: apples and honey. This unpretentious pairing manages to symbolize our wish not just for the two days of Rosh Hashanah but for the whole New Year. In fact, it is the simplicity of this holiday tradition that highlights the elevated message.

Volunteering at River Garden embodies a similar uncomplicated sweetness. It is about the gentle gestures at the core of meaningful interactions. Instead of conventional notions regarding volunteer hours and assignments, it is about honoring the individual - your busy schedule and preferences – and the unique interests of each resident. Our flexibility is about expanding community member access to opportunities. This allows you to contribute to the greatest number of residents and staff, therefore, to a greater good.

Let us champion the pure nature of volunteering and its joyful moments. Volunteers lead a book club, ask engaging trivia questions, assist with flower arranging, teach Yiddish and countless other activities. Other options include talking sports with friends, playing chess or mahjong, participating in our monthly birthday celebration and painting nails. Take a feeding class, ride our DUET bike with a resident passenger, fulfill essential clerical work or consider volunteering with your pup! Pet volunteers are adored and bring the brightest smiles. And those are just a selection of options.

River Garden also offers one of the most unique teen leadership volunteer programs in the city. Secure your teen's (ages 13 – 17) lifelong commitment to community by encouraging their participation in River Garden Teens (RGT). Students from all backgrounds learn to enrich their lives by doing the same for others, we support the development of intergenerational relationships and open-mindedness and empathy skills. Plus teens learn to apply their work ethic to responsibilities outside of school and family, and more.

Thank you to our current volunteers who are sweet as honey. To potential volunteers, please take one moment this Rosh Hashanah to consider how your apples and honey represent something much greater - how a few hours of your time can have a tremendous impact.

REFLECTIONS FROM OUR DONORS

Meryl & Harris Rittenberg

“River Garden has been part of our family for generations, caring for our older relatives with love and respect. We give as a way of honoring the Fifth Commandment—to ‘Honor your father and mother’—by supporting those who took care of us. Just as past volunteers and community members did when they were our age, it’s now our turn to give back and ensure that this legacy of care continues for generations to come.”

Ashley Adams
Senior Accounting Assistant

“I fully believe in and support River Garden’s mission and values. The importance of honoring your mother and father as family is extremely important to me. After working here for over a decade, in nursing and finance, as well as having had family members as residents, I have a deep emotional connection to the community and residents. It truly has become a second home to me.”

Deanna & Mike Lissner

“River Garden is all about family and home, and memories of loved ones who came before us. Being able to leave a legacy gift to River Garden serves as an important example for future generations to preserve those memories and teach an important life lesson we can pass on to our children.”

Margie & Aaron Holzer

“Our tradition teaches us the importance of respecting our elders. Supporting a facility of River Garden’s caliber in the community, where Jewish values and traditions will continue to be accessible in the future, enables one way of fulfilling this mitzvah. Though not in Jacksonville, we experienced this firsthand as our parents had places similar to River Garden in their communities where they could feel completely at home and confident that their traditions would be upheld. This is why we support River Garden.”

32ND RIVER GARDEN FOUNDATION GALA

A Mosaic Masterpiece is a celebration of the vibrant people, moments and memories that make River Garden the extraordinary Home it has been for decades.

We are thrilled to invite you to the 32nd River Garden Foundation Gala, A Mosaic Masterpiece, taking place on November 16, 2024, at the Sawgrass Marriott Golf Resort & Spa.

Like a mosaic, River Garden's strength lies in the diversity of its pieces—each resident, staff member, volunteer and supporter contributing to our rich tapestry. Over our long history, these countless individual stories have come together to form something greater than each could alone. Every person is a vital piece, and this beautiful range of experiences is what has made us a stronger, more resilient and more compassionate community.

As we reflect on the people who have shaped our journey, it is only fitting that we honor Evan Yegelwel. As the founding president of the River Garden Foundation and its inaugural Gala, Evan's leadership was pivotal in fostering the philanthropic spirit that has helped secure River Garden's future. His contributions are a cornerstone of our mosaic, one that continues to inspire and guide us today.

The Gala is particularly meaningful because it celebrates this collective legacy while raising essential funds to provide the highest quality of care to all our residents, regardless of their financial means. Your support helps ensure that our legacy of compassionate care continues to flourish.

We hope you will join us for this spectacular evening, honoring the many pieces of our past, present, and future on November 16.

Evan Yegelwel presents the first-ever Gala proceeds check to Rochelle Proctor, event co-chair, in 1993.
